PROJECTS

RATER APP (Ruby on Rails, React, Redux, PostgreSQL)   LIVE / GITHUB

A platform designed for users to rate and review restaurants where they've eaten at, or more simply put, a pixel perfect replica of Yelp

- Implemented a RESTful architectural approach to separate back end routes with client side to improve portability and scalability
- Developed a smooth and secure user authentication experience through BCrypt data hashing functionality
- Utilized Redux framework in conjunction with React to manage state changes to enhance code readability and optimization
- Leveraged Google Maps' API to display restaurants and markers based on users' search and filter preferences

ZOE (MongoDB, Express, React, Node.js)   LIVE / GITHUB

A lifestyle app designed to give users the life they want to lead by generating delicious recipes based on user goals and/or needs

- Served as the backend developer and collaborated with a team of five engineers to integrate frontend React components with backend systems
- Implemented API routes to pull information from Spoonacular API into MongoDB based on the data models and validations constructed

10000 HOURS - (Javascript)   LIVE - / GITHUB

A single-page vanilla JS app that helps user test the infamous theory of mastering a skill in 10000 hours by tracking their tasks and progress

- Implemented lazy loading to reduce initial load time and to deliver previous tasks to the user only when needed
- Designed with Javascript EventListeners to increase page responsiveness and to allow users to interact through hotkeys which improved client experience and accessibility
